FitSpirit invites young girls to initiate themselves to BMX

FitSpirit, a nonprofit organization that offers girls from 13 to 17 years old concrete ways to adopt an active, healthy and balanced lifestyle will be present at the National Championships held on August 5 and 6 at Saint-Augustin-de-Desmaures. The young girls who are interested will thus be able to try BMX.

A course created in periphery of the venue will allow participants to initiate themselves to BMX on Saturday August 5. Once the competitions is over, they will be able to ride the National Championships' official track. No material is required, as the equipment will be furnished on site.

This activity will be realized thanks to the financial support of the Canadian Cycling Association (CCA), as well as the logistic support of Quebec's Cycling Federation (FQSC) and Quebec's BMX Club, organizer of the National Championships. It will be the perfect occasion for the FQSC to launch its program: BMX Elles 2011-2012.

"Being able to count on the support of FitSpirit to develop BMX's women's participation is an unique occasion. We are convinced that this partnership will bring new girls to practice BMX" said Bruno Vachon, BMX and Cyclocross Technical Director.

More details will soon be available on <http://fitspirit.ca/>

FitSpirit, it's...

...the pure intention of bringing girls to be more active so that they can reveal their full potential through a sport activity. Everything FitSpirit undertakes with young girls is sustained by fundamental values in which we strongly believe.
